OFFENSIVE
AGAINST HUNHAIG STARTS EARLY MORNING
ATTACK ALONG A SIX MILE FRONT NORTHEAST OF YPRES.

SECOND IN FOUR DAYS

Boche Suspicious Throughout Night
But British Force Lines to Depth of 800 Yards.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Oct. 12.—The British troops in Flanders attacked the Germans this morning on a front of about six miles northeast of Ypres. They are reported to be making satisfactory progress. The official report from field marshal Haig's headquarters today reads: "We attacked at dawn on this morning on a front of about six miles northeast of Ypres. Our troops are reported to be making satisfactory progress. Rain fell heavily during the night."

In Same Region.
Field marshal Haig's latest effort is being pushed in the same region as the attacks of Tuesday in which the British in co-operation with the French drove back the Germans along a front of seven miles and captured more than two thousand prisoners. It is probable that their present effort is an attempt to clear the Germans from the remaining portions of the dominant ridge east of Ypres. Tuesday's attack gave the British more ground on the ridge and left the Germans with only a small section in the region of Passchendaele. The British now hold most of the good positions on the ridge from which they dominate with their artillery the important railroad and the railroads of Roulers, Staden and Menin.

Apparently the present drive is being made under weather conditions similar to that which existed Tuesday.

Surprise to Germans.
Following several days of heavy rain field marshal Haig threw his men forward and surprised the Germans who did not think that the British would attempt to attack while the battle field was waterlogged.

Six Mile Front.
British front in France and Belgium, Oct. 12.—At an early hour on Oct. 12 British troops began an attack in Flanders this morning, had penetrated several hundred yards into the enemy's territory on a six mile front from here, Houtholst wood, to a point below the Ypres-Roulers railroad, and were battling along the Passchendaele ridge within one thousand yards of the center of the ridge of Passchendaele. At 10 o'clock this morning reports were received that everything was going well with today's British attacks in Flanders. The troops along a six mile front pushed forward to a depth of eight hundred yards or more.

Aware Early.
Indications are that the Germans early were aware that trouble was in the air. At about 4:30 a. m. they fired a large number of gas shells along the British front.

Prisoners were beginning to come in early, although slow owing to the conditions on the ground.

German Report.
Berlin, Oct. 12.—Fresh attacks were begun on a wide front in Flanders today by the entente. The German line had been directed on the area from Lys to the Ypres-Menin road, army headquarters announces.

Artillery Fire.
London, Oct. 12.—The official statement given out here tonight. Three German aeroplanes were destroyed and two others were driven out of control. The British lost four machines.

An Air Raid.
Another air raid over Belgium was reported officially today. The state reported followed by a heavy rain. Bombs on the Sparapelloek airfield yesterday afternoon despite heavy clouds of rain. All our machines returned.

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]
London, Oct. 12.—The second great British drive against the Germans in four days on the West Flanders front was launched today. The British troops assaulted the German lines over a front of six miles at dawn and field marshal Haig reported that satisfactory progress was made. All of the objectives set for the attackers were attained.

Heavy fighting center-around Houtholst forest, Passchendaele, Poelcapelle, Goubert, Nieuwenhove and the Bruges road, northeast of Ypres. The attack began in a wet, murky dawn after a driving rain storm had drenched the field all night.

Plowing their way forward through thick sticky mud, the British slogged their way through the front of water-filled shell holes, the British were soon in possession of the first line German trenches.

The Germans put up stiff resistance, but most of it had been knocked out of them by the violent bombardment of their positions which had been raging three days and three nights.

At latest reports from the front, fighting was still in progress, but the British were consolidating their new gains and preparing for counter-attacks.

Monster howitzers along the Anglo-French front in West Flanders are pounding the German positions over a wide front north and east of Ypres.

All the new British and French positions won so gallantly on Tuesday have now been consolidated and the heavy guns deluge the German trench lines with shells, while the lighter artillery is also doing damage.

Stormy weather continues with rainstorms adding to the mud that already made the battlefield one vast swamp.

Military experts predicted today that field marshal Haig is opening the way with his army for a new infantry thrust and that the new drive will carry the British to the eastern slopes of the whole of Passchendaele ridge.

Germans are nervous. All night long they kept firing star shells into the sky, lighting up the forefield with the brilliance of high noon so that no sudden attack could be undertaken without being seen.

The German artillery is replying to the British and French guns but their shell fire is feeble compared with the blasting salvos that roar continuously from the allies' cannon.

GERMAN SHIPS USED AS ALLIED CARRIERS

Paris, Oct. 12.—Maurice Long, minister of provision, was asked in the chamber of deputies today whether he believed the reconstruction of German shipping in Brazil could be raised. The minister replied that he not only hoped so, but he believed that this could assure the house that this could be used in carrying food.

Brazil severed diplomatic relations with Germany on April 11, 1917, and seized forty-six German merchant ships laid up in Brazilian harbors, the vessels aggregating 240,779 tons. On September 5th the Brazilian minister of marine announced that his government could not dispose of the German ships to the entente allies.

Aiken, S. C., Oct. 12.—Paul Wierse, editorial writer of the Charleston (S. C.) American and Capt. Klattmann of the German steamship Liebenfels, were convicted in federal court here Thursday of conspiracy to sink the ship in Charleston harbor and sentenced to two years in federal prison at Atlanta and to pay a fine of $1,000 each. The Liebenfels was sunk just before the diplomatic break with Germany, presumably on orders of the German government.

STUDENTS' MILITARY
COMPANY ORGANIZEDNINETY-FOUR BOYS FROM THE
HIGH SCHOOL JOIN VOLUN-
TARY MILITARY UNIT
FORMED THURSDAY EVENING.

SHOW GREAT INTEREST

Drills Will be Held on Tuesday Evenings Under Direction of State Guard Officers.

With an attendance of ninety-four boys of the three upper classes of the high school, the voluntary military company was officially launched Thursday evening at the armory of the sixteenth Separate Company Wisconsin State Guard. The number of boys who were present at the formation and organization of the unit was very much larger than was expected and the enthusiasm shown by the boys proved that the company will be a success throughout the work which will be carried on for their benefit.

Promptly at seven-thirty the boys were formed into line and given the fundamentals of a soldier so that they could stand at attention during the talks and explanations which were given by members of the state guard, who will have charge of the drill work until the members of the company are able to take charge of the work themselves.

George A. Bassford, principle of the high school, was present to represent the school interests and gave a short talk to the boys at the close of the drill. He explained the conditions under which the company was formed and what was expected of them now that they have joined. The company will be carried on under the supervision of the state guard and a school institution which will require prompt attendance at drills and unceasing efforts in their work.

Captain David Atwood of the Sixteenth Separate Company in behalf of the company addressed the boys and explained the drill work and what they can expect in the near future in regard to uniforms, equipment and exercises. The company, he stated, was formed with the idea of giving the boys the opportunity of gaining this military training under the instruction of officers of the State Guard.

First Lieutenant Edward Baumann also spoke commending the boys on the stand they had taken in the matter and told them of the great things which can be accomplished by them by giving the best they have to drill work and to make all efforts to make the company a success.

Drill instructor, H. H. Harrison was the final speaker on the short program. He explained a few of the first movements to be practiced in addition to the drill work and his interest in the company which will be a credit to the high school as well as to the city of Janesville.

Second Lieutenant Victor Hemming took charge of the company and explained the facing with the aid of members of the State Guard who were present to aid in the work and to master the facings and the right dress. Following about fifteen minutes of the work the boys were formed in line and marched around the hall to be congratulated with the marching "stems" and to execute several of the important commands.

Sergeant Schwieger, following the marching took charge of the boys and put them through a series of drill exercises. These exercises are intended to harden the soldier for their work and the boys certainly enjoyed them.

Several other members of the State Guard were also on hand to aid in the formation of the company. These present were First Sergeant Charles Sage; Sergeant Thomas Nott; Sergeant Thomas Nolan, Corporal Hill and Corporal Anderson.

On the evening of which the drill was to be held each week resulted in an unanimous selection of Tuesday evening as the day to start at seven-thirty and will close promptly at eight-thirty. The second drill period will continue in getting the boys into shape.

Until the boys are capable of handling themselves the members of the State Guard have given over their services and will be on hand at each drill period to aid the boys. Temporary corporals have been appointed and the next meeting will be soon as some of the members show the ability to take the places permanently. Appointments will be made by competitive drill to determine the most able.

The boys who were present and enlisted in the company last evening are: Theodore Acheson, Herbert Allen, Delton Amerphol, Harry Anderson, Joseph Thomas Birmingham, Sidney Biles, Harold Boos, Melvin Boursaak, Lyle Boves, Charles Brecker, Clark Butts, Paul Claxton, Harold Cook, James Crowley, Frances Cunningham, Halley Day, Karl Decker, Elliot Dobson, John Drew, Elmer Dutton, Edward Ewing, William Evers, Fred Finch, Edmund Finch, Charles Finley, Edward Fisher, Roy Fleming, Kurt Fuchs, Howard Gage, John Gramke, Elmer Gestland, Charles Haker, Earl Haley, Howard Hall, Joseph Hanson, Roy Ald Hammond, Magnus Hanson, Roy Ketter, Kenneth Kober, Lyman Kimball, William Korst, Stewart Lamb, Robert Lane, Robert Lester, Harold Lawson, Gerald Mathias, Bernard McLaughlin, Gerald McDermott, John McDowell, Clarence McGinley, Leighton McKinney, George McCann, Kirkland McWay, Morgan Metcalf, Albert Myhr, George O'Brien, Malcolm Paul, Harold Persons, Leo Powers, George Rasmussen, Byron Roberts, Ernest Roel, Maurice Russell, Frank Schaefer, Alfred Schindler, Hanous Schaller, Kenneth Schoon, Alan Silver, Walter Spoon, Schroder, Elmer Schultz, Kenneth Spoon, Austin Sprackling, Edward Stead, Stewart St. John, Robert Steyer, Leslie Sullivan, Lohrer Tamm, Raymond Thompson, Milton Whaley, Kenneth Veltz, Milton Whaley, Charles Williams, Zeble Woodstock.

Washington, Oct. 12.—In its requisitioning of ships on Oct. 15 the shipping board is considering taking over all American vessels of more than 1,500 tons dead weight capacity instead of 2,500 tons as first announced. The great need of trans-Atlantic tonnage was said today has made this necessary.

American ships of more than 1,500 ton capacity available for ocean service number 580, aggregating 2,813,353 tons dead weight. Most of the smaller vessels to be requisitioned will be put into peaceful trade. Many will ply between the United States and South America and the West Indies.

MILITARISTS MUST GO SAYS CHURCHMAN

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Columbus, O., Oct. 12.—"When the combined democrats and overwork shall have taken the Hohenzollerns by their bristling mustaches, their efforts in the divine right of kings and their breeches of hachee-faced and red-tinged and of the smaller vessels to be requisitioned will be put into peaceful trade. Many will ply between the United States and South America and the West Indies."

"An industrial democracy in which labor shall be rated as capital and shall sit in the councils of capital, will alone satisfy the demands of the common man, and only such will give the stability in industry which is our cry."

"Democracy is not safe for the world where there is a large class underfed and underworked, while there is a small class overpaid, overfed and underworked. Democracy is not safe for the world which puts profits before human life and products before the needs of the human race."

"We have seen religious autocracy stalk by us in its seven league boots and we have seen it trample on the rights of the human race. We have seen it in the church which has kicked up. The painted harlot of church efficiency has beckoned to us to sell our birthright for a mess of pottage."

"The Socialists have been quite loud in declaring that Jesus was the first Socialist. Yet no class of men need more to sit humbly at the feet of Jesus than the Socialists. The method of the one is material, the other spiritual. Socialism would make better surroundings to make the man, Jesus would make the man better."

"Much has been said in these years about the failure of Christianity, but Christianity has not failed because it is not a religion of the world. The religion of Jesus Christ has never been tried. There is no such thing as a Christian world and no such thing as a Christian nation. Christendom is a goal, not an achievement."

IN RURAL DISTRICTS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12.—Rural communities of Wisconsin have furnished so many physicians for the army and navy that the health of the countryside is being threatened.

The country doctors have responded more numerous to the call of the country for war service than those from large cities, said Dr. L. J. Jernigan, dean of the Marquette School of Medicine.

"This is not because city men are less patriotic, but because of a variety of reasons. The doctors in the city are so busy financially that they cannot leave their country brothers, who are able to save more money. City physicians have families to support must pay high life insurance policies and in an emergency they are not incurred while in the country."

"The shortage of doctors in the country is becoming alarming. Several communities are without service and must rely on what little aid can be given by nearby practitioners. Larger cities can spare more and still not suffer. Milwaukee, for instance, could send away 500 physicians and the rural communities would be affected materially," continued Dr. Jernigan.

With a view to finding a remedy for this situation, a survey is being made of the entire state that will reveal the true situation.

MORE THAN 3,000 IN
HUN NAVAL MUTINY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Copenhagen, Oct. 12.—More than three thousand sailors and several members of the reichstag were involved in the mutiny in the German navy which broke out late last August, according to information received here today from a German naval port.

The leaders were plotting revolution when the outbreak was checked by loyal German soldiers and sailors. Most of the workshops affected were lying at Wilhelmshaven when the uprising took place.

Latest reports give the following causes as the chief ones leading up to the mutiny:
1. Influence exerted by the success of the successful revolt in Russia, which inspired the men to a demand for "naval committees" such as now exist in the Russian fleet.
2. Bad and insufficient food.
3. Low morals caused by long inactivity.

Whether there was any connection between the outbreak in the navy and the mutinous uprising among the German soldiers on the western front is not known, but it is assumed that there was.

The ringleaders in both instances were severely dealt with. A number were executed and severe terms of imprisonment were conferred upon others. The sentences imposed, harsh as they were, fell short of the penalties demanded by the Kaiser.

More Against La Follette.
Rhinelander, Wis., Oct. 12.—A petition signed by one hundred leading citizens was wired to United States Senator Paul O. Hastings, demanding that Senator La Follette be ousted from his seat in the senate.

Rule of Authority
And Order on Gain
In Russian Troops

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Petrograd, Oct. 12.—The authority of the bodies elected by the soldiers themselves is increasing daily. The soldiers are reported to often express desires for instructions, literature and lectures. On the Russian front where the idea of a strictly socialist government has not gained popularity, the general opinion of the army there is that a coalition government which would unite all factions should be formed.

Austria-German troops are renewing their attempts to fraternize with the Russian soldiers. The Russian war office, however, has issued a statement according to which the Russian war office. The general situation is quiet, although some of the army as well as some of the Cossack units still act with suspicion toward the commanding staff. The question of peace is said to agitate the great mass of the Russian soldiers; at some places there is agitation against capital punishment but at the same time demands are made that punishment at the rear of the fighting front be enforced with greater strictness. The cases where orders are not carried out are comparatively rare. The soldiers who refuse to obey orders usually are being brought to trial.

The war office announced with regret that the evil influence of the general and police still asserts itself. There are no measures have been taken to isolate these elements. Complaints of want of discipline among recruits are still numerous.

MUTINY PREVENTS ATTACK ON RUSSIA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Oct. 12.—The inactivity of the German fleet in the Baltic Sea, predicted by Saturday's dispatch, according to a dispatch to the Chronicle from Amsterdam, was due to the mutiny which broke out in Germany. The outbreak effected at least six important units of the fleet, putting them out of action, and causing the authorities to doubt the discipline and loyalty of the fleet. The large ships, it was impossible, the dispatch added, to take stern measures on a large scale against the offenders because that would have increased the evil.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—"Fair with a slowly rising temperature" was the guess of the weather man here today in his forecast of weather conditions for the fifth game of the world's series tomorrow.

MACHINE COMPANY
SALESMEN CONVENEAnnual Conference of Salesmen and Agents of the Janesville Machine
Company in Progress.

Over forty members of the Janesville Machine company's selling force are in Janesville for the annual conference of salesmen and agents of the company. The conference is being held at the Janesville Hotel. The entire Mississippi valley and parts of the great agricultural sections of the southwest. Sessions opened Thursday morning and will continue in both forenoon and evening until Saturday night.

That the new schedule of steel prices put into effect by the government last week will "ave no immediate effect on the price of agricultural implements was the conclusion arrived at after a thorough discussion of the problem at one of the business meetings. Practically all steel, all raw material, is contracted for by the manufacturers for their next season's goods, and the makers of steel will not abrogate or readjust their contracts, which are already outstanding.

It is expected, however, that the price of steel will come to the consumer after the materials already contracted for have been used up.

The conference this year marks the first anniversary of the adoption by the local concern of the "non-service" selling plan, and the success with which it has been set at work was attested to by every one of the representatives of the firms for the conference. The scheme is believed to be the only one of its kind in use by a large manufacturing concern, and was developed by J. A. Craig, general manager of the plant. It is an elaboration of the retailers' cash and carry system, fitted to the more complex needs of a manufacturer.

This evening the salesmen gathered together for the entire force of the plant, will be the guests of the directors and their wives at a banquet to be given at seven o'clock at the Myers hotel. Dr. David Beaton, the principal speaker of the evening, will deliver an address on "The War in Relation to Business and American Citizenship."

BRYAN MAY BE THERE

Committee Will First Investigate Allegations Regarding the Lusitania Affair.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin was invited by the senate committee investigating his alleged disloyal speech at St. Paul to appear next Tuesday before the committee for a hearing regarding assertions in his address.

The hearing probably will be public and will be confined to the statement of facts in the speech, particularly regarding Mr. La Follette's statement that former secretary Bryan appeared to President Wilson to keep passage of the Lusitania bill out of the committee alleged to be in his hands. The committee advised that its investigating authority does not extend to his right to make the non-partisan speech nor into the motives of his critics.

To the letter sent yesterday by Senator La Follette asking a hearing and suggesting extension of the investigation Chairman Pomeroy replied today. "Referring to the request communicated in your letter, the subcommittee desires to advise you that it does not concede that its powers extend to an inquiry into your right to make this speech delivered by you in St. Paul—that question being reserved by the full committee for its consideration; nor does it believe itself authorized to inquire into the motives or animus of those making attacks on you."

The subcommittee desires, however, to afford you an opportunity to be heard and to inform the committee with reference to the accuracy of your statements contained in the speech referred to and to that end you are invited to attend the ensuing session of the committee next Tuesday.

Senator La Follette is expected to be the first witness on Tuesday and to submit much data toward substantiating his statements. Other witnesses may be called later. The first question which the committee plans to investigate is the authority of Senator La Follette for his statement regarding the Lusitania. The committee is expected to ask the question: "What right had Bryan regarding the incident? It has not been determined whether Mr. Bryan will be asked to appear."

LOCAL VETERANS TO ATTEND ENCAMPMENT

Survivors of Vicksburg Campaign Given Free Trip South for Big Reunion Camp.

Twenty-six veterans of the Vicksburg campaign living in this part of the state, among whom are six from this city, will form part of the great aggregation of 367 veterans who will be given a trip from their homes to Vicksburg by the state. At the last session of the legislature a law was passed appropriating funds to pay the expenses of the old soldiers.

A number of other states are donating money for the same purpose and it is estimated that there will be upwards of fifteen thousand veterans in camp at Vicksburg for the reunion. The encampment is held in commemoration of fifty years of peace and good fellowship between the north and the south. Both Union and Confederate soldiers will be in attendance.

FIFTEEN DAYS FOR COLORED OFFENDER

Judge Hands Out a Fifteen Day Sentence to Negro Who Entered Plea of Not Guilty on Thursday.

Robert Ray, colored, who he appeared before Judge Maxted Thursday morning on a charge of drunkenness entered a plea of not guilty, but this morning he decided to make a change and was sentenced by the judge to fifteen days in the jail. Officer Patrick Stein, who arrested Ray, was on the stand and gave his evidence in the case and after hearing it the judge decided he was guilty and gave him a fine of $10 and costs of fifteen days in the jail. Not having the money to pay the fine, he was placed in the custody of Sheriff Whipple for his fifteen day sentence.

Dave Murray, when arraigned in court this morning entered a plea of not guilty, and was bound over for trial on Monday, October 15, at four o'clock. (Until that time he will be held under $1000 bail.)

Orion McConnell, who gave an oration when arraigned before the judge several days ago, is now waiting for the jury to arrive at Elgin, Illinois. McConnell appeared to be of a restless nature when arrested here in Janesville and the judge said that his actions were of such a character that the police officials started an investigation to see whether he had escaped from any asylum in this vicinity.

Thursday word was received from the asylum at Elgin that McConnell had escaped and that he was on the lookout for him. Sheriff Whipple got into communication with them and he is now holding McConnell awaiting the arrival of the attendants to take him back.

CHILD KILLED WHEN HE TAKES MEDICINE

Milton Junction, Oct. 12.—Little Kenneth Garrigus of this town died almost instantly yesterday after eating a sugar coated pill intended for his mother, who is ill. The little lad had been warned against the medicine but the temptation was too much and he took one. The powerful drug proved too much for his young system, and death followed almost at once. Mr. Garrigus with his family have been residents of Milton Junction for but a month, but the tragedy of the child's death has been a shock to the entire community.

WHAT IS A SLACKER?

The war has brought into prominence this word "Slacker." It is applied to the man who exhausts every effort to escape military service at a time when the nation is calling for a great army of men.

In a broader sense it applies to every man and woman who shirks responsibility in the hour of the nation's need. The man who refuses to buy a liberty bond, for any reason except absolute inability to pay for it, on easy terms, is just as much of a slacker, as the man who runs away to escape military service.

It is worse than the latter because the sacrifice which he is asked to make is a blessing to him. He is not asked for a donation, but simply for a loan from his savings or earnings, for which his government gives a bond drawing four per cent interest secured by all the wealth of the country.

The buying of one of these bonds simply means showing our willingness to do our bit in the easiest possible way to aid in winning the war. It costs something in the way of sacrifice to save the money, that is the best thing that ever happened to us, because it develops thrift and economy, habits which none of us can afford to neglect.

The world has always had its slackers. Men who shirk responsibility in the home and in the city of which they are a part—men who leave the wife and mother to carry the burdens alone, who drink up their income and expect the wife to finance the family. Men who never vote, but spend their time in criticizing the city government.

This class of men never amount to anything, and would hardly be expected to buy a government bond, but there is a larger class today, which the exigencies of war have brought to the surface.

Men who know that the nation is at war but who have not yet come to realize that it is their war. They know that it will cost a lot of money, but they imagine that somebody else will furnish it. They belong to the class of men who are always willing to drink at the other fellow's expense, but are strenuously opposed to standing treat themselves.

But this war is a new proposition. It isn't the other fellow's war; it is our war and all that we possess in the way of property or property interest is at stake. More than that, the destiny of the nation is involved, and it means your destiny and mine.

The war must be won at any and every sacrifice. If we refuse to furnish the money to carry it on by voluntary loan, then the government has the right to take it away from us, and if we do, there will be no cause for complaint.

The taxes already provided, will be paid largely by the wealth of the country. If the bond issues are successfully floated they will be paid, in large extent, by generations yet to come.

If we fail to buy them then the only thing left for our government to do is to secure the money by direct tax, and if this is done, the necessities of life will help bear the burden and all of us will feel it.

The Gazette believes that the money will be cheerfully furnished to carry on the war, and it will be all of us put our shoulders to the wheel and push. Don't be a slacker!

BONDS AND OTHERWISE.

The committee that are out attempting to sell the new issue of the Liberty loan bonds are doing their utmost to induce everyone to buy them, but when it comes right down to the bottom of the whole matter, and you look at it face to face, is it not a good investment? Can you find a better one? Is it possible to go to your bankers or your money lender and obtain money to buy that bond under any other conditions with the same privileges? Once you own it you own it. Once you have it saved, it has not been swept away in the industrial and speculative of every day life. A man may spend a dollar or two without hesitation, but when it comes to spending fifty or a hundred, he hesitates. These bonds are of various denominations. The fifty dollar one is the cheapest. It is negotiable and if paid for by the installment plan bears any other method of saving money by any scheme at all available. Once you have that bond you feel you have a personal interest in the government and you actually own something of its concrete wealth, and rightly, too, for the United States owes you the sum paid and also pays interest. This is not one of the prepared "Four Minute Talks" you will hear, but one from the shoulder, and the advice behind it is the slogan, "Buy a Bond." Sounds familiar, that slogan, but it helps win the war. We have men at Camp Grant, more are going. We have men at Waco, Tex., going to France when their training is completed, and we have men in the naval service, the aviation, the marine and regular army, the hospital corps and the others in various branches of the service. These Liberty bonds you are asked to buy are to aid them to win the war. You may be too young or too old and dependent to go into actual service. You may have families to support that would be an injustice to leave, and business that you can not sacrifice, but by buying one of those bonds you do your share. Do your bit if you do not want to pay indemnity instead of retaining your independence as an American citizen. The government needs your money and pays you for its use. Government bonds are at a premium. Buy now and add to the grand total to tell the Hun where he stands and for what the United States stands—one people, free and united and working in the interests of "Peace on Earth, Good Will towards Man."

HUNTING.

It costs the average hunter five cents a shot fired at any game. If he is lucky he will pay expenses when railroad fare, loss of time and expenditure of energy is counted on, but just the same the days of cheap game has gone, never to return. Hunters complain that the cartridges they buy are not sufficiently charged to meet the growing demands for action, that same is not only scarce and much more costly, but that the number of hunters, induced by the H. C. L., are increased in numbers and the net results are discouraging. One has to be an American citizen to hunt this year of our Lord. Foreigners who have not attained the rights of citizenship can not obtain licenses and the war has driven out a lot of pot hunters, men who shot only for their own revenue and regardless of the rights of property-owners or lives of other hunters. The hunting season has just begun and we may expect some tales of prowess in the fine art of bringing in good sized strings before the snow flies.

Some of the congressmen have favored war insurance on the ground that it will do away with pensions, and later they will introduce a lot of private bills for their district, on the basis that these cases weren't taken care of in the war insurance bill.

The Germans aren't worrying about the big merchant fleet we are building, as Bill Hohenzollern has confidentially informed them that all we will have is a lot of broken down picnic excursion steamers that will sink in the first high seas.

LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE BRINGS IN $44,600

FOURTH DAY OF ACTIVE CAMPAIGN NETS SATISFACTORY RESULTS—EVERY AGENCY WORKING.

QUARTER SUBSCRIBED

Total Subscribed to Date Almost One-Fourth of Allotment—More Than $41,000 a Day Needed.

Reported yesterday was $44,600. Total subscribed to date $170,900. Almost forty-five thousand dollars was the net result yesterday drive in the second Liberty loan campaign in this city, an amount which swelled the grand total for the first four days to but a little less than one-quarter of the total amount allotted to the city.

With this as a starter, and with the success of the teams gaining daily, the directors of the drive in Janesville expect the net to be raised easily within the time limit. But few of the larger subscriptions have been turned in as yet, while practically every campaigner on the eight men's teams has secured several hundred, and even thousands of dollars in his possession. But one of the banks has taken out its subscription to date. There was every indication that before noon today the total would be swelled to more than two hundred thousand dollars. Results of the campaign in the factories is beginning to make itself felt, and today several superintendents turned in applications for large blocks of bonds purchased by the employees.

Organization of the women's teams, whose efforts are being confined exclusively to the residential sections, have been perfected. The city laid out into definite sub-divisions to be covered by their teams, and the applications of women are beginning to form a part of those turned in at the four banks.

Steady increase in the publicity given on the loan is making itself felt, not only in Janesville, but in other parts of the country, where the Liberty loan is mounting rapidly toward the $1,750,000 mark, which must be subscribed in Rock county. Despite the fact that throughout the campaign the loan is lagging, financiers feel but little trepidation that it will not be oversubscribed before the end of the campaign. In this county the careful organization of the campaign is being largely responsible for the efficiency with which the canvassing is now going on. From every angle the citizen is presented with the necessity of doing his bit. Posters adorn every window and prominent place, speeches are made at every gathering, and the activity is brought to a head by the personal solicitation of one of the hundreds of canvassers who have volunteered their services throughout the county.

If the total is to be reached within the prescribed time, more than four one thousand dollars a day must be subscribed in this city.

Must Speed Up.
Washington, Oct. 12.—Within fourteen working days the American people must subscribe to the second Liberty loan on an average rate of more than $335,000,000 a day, if the five billion dollars hoped for by the government is to be obtained. The minimum of three billion dollars set by Secretary McAdoo is to be raised, subscription must average $191,000,000 every business day until the end of the Liberty loan campaign. Oct. 12.—Total subscriptions are $325,465,000, or at the rate of only about $35,000,000 a day. The figures represent total subscriptions actually reported to all federal reserve banks except Minneapolis. This district had not yet reported.

GOLDEN WEDDING IS OBSERVED BY PARTY

Fifty Years Ago Last Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cox Were Married at Beloit.

On Wednesday of this week, the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cox, who were married at Beloit, Wis., Oct. 13, 1867, was observed by a reception. Eighty intimate friends of the aged couple were present and the decorations were golden and white. The home of the couple's two daughters, which adjoin each other, Mrs. Bert Gower and Mrs. William Kemmerer, had been tastefully decorated and refreshments were served in the home and the reception proper held in the other. Mr. and Mrs. Cox received many beautiful presents from their friends and a most delightful afternoon was enjoyed. Herman Donner.
The funeral of Herman Donner was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Albert Blum, 512 South Academy street, and at 3:30 from the St. Paul's German Lutheran church. The Rev. A. L. Treu conducted the services. The many friends of the dead man showed their esteem of his memory by accompanying the mortal remains to the place of rest. Many beautiful flowers were also sent. The pallbearers were Albert Vobian, William Vohs, William J. Demrow, Charles Quade, John Fassel and August Dobralz. The remains were interred in the Oak Hill cemetery.

Around The State

Gambling Sluts.
Portage, Oct. 12.—Slot machines and all similar games of chance have been abolished from the drug and tobacco stores and all because the proprietor of one place was not satisfied with his winnings. A youthful operator who had placed three nickels in one machine won a twenty-five cent check. The proprietor, however, contended that the machine had not been fairly operated and gave the youth a nickel to "try it again." The youth did so and lost. Then he made a complaint and now the little wheels no longer whirl and the sound of the rolling dice is conspicuous by its absence.

Cemetery Crowded.
Racine, Oct. 12.—Burial space is so scarce in Racine cemetery here that the cemetery commission has recommended converting the paths between the lots into burial place. It is said that the sale of these lots alone would net the city $14,000 for the cemetery fund. Over twenty thousand bodies are now interred in the cemetery.

Acetylene Fails Bandits.
Waldo, Oct. 12.—Although they utilized an acetylene torch, the bandits were unable to cut through the vault doors of the state bank here. Officials assert that this is the first time acetylene has been used by bank robbers in the state.

Priest Off for Front.
Rhineclaire, Oct. 12.—Father Beaudette, for many years pastor of St. Mary's church in this city, has left for active service in France. He has been commissioned as a chaplain with the rank of first lieutenant and has been attached to the fourteenth regiment of engineers. When he departed from this city he was given a big farewell demonstration by his former parishioners.

Lover Tries Suicide.
Racine, Oct. 12.—Disappointment in a love affair is said to have caused the attempted suicide of George E. Rhineclaire of Berlin, Wis., who is suffering from the effects of swallowing carbolic acid. The young woman in the case, who has managed to keep her identity concealed, called up Rhineclaire's employer and informed them that he would not report for work as he had quarreled with her and then taken poison.

Steals for Affinity.
La Crosse, Oct. 12.—Because of her love for a married man, a Hot actress, who stole her way into the state penitentiary, Charles Schaefer, who is being held for trial on the charge of larceny, is the man who says that she committed the thefts for him for the last four years because of her love.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 12.—A peculiarly marked bulldog led to the arrest today of a couple giving the names of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wilson. They are alleged to have stolen furs, silks, silverware and other articles out of a home at Ashland, Wis., which they occupied for the summer.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: The other evening I went downtown to do some shopping and when I was coming home a nice young man who lives near me caught up with me and asked if he might help me with my bundles. He has never been fresh before and I was very much shocked to think he would do such a thing. I had never met him. My mother thinks that it was all right for him to do it because she says he speaks to her every evening when he is coming home from work. What do you think about it? PAULINE.

I think that your mother probably knows what is best. If he speaks to her that way it shows that he is not merely trying to flatter with young girls. He probably knows that he knows you and if he never had no introduction. He is just trying to flatter with you, you can't surely object to his offering to help you with your bundles. I don't know you know he lives so near and he probably feels that he knows you. If I were you I would let him carry the bundles, but I would not let him come to my house. I don't see any harm in that. I don't think he would hurt if you told him I didn't want to go to the picture show? I don't want to do anything that would make him want to leave me.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: There is a young man who comes to see me quite often and he usually suggests that we go to a picture show. I like him very much and would rather sit and talk to him or take a walk, but going to the picture show hurts my eyes and I don't know what to do about it. Do you think he would be hurt if I told him I didn't want to go to the picture show? I don't want to do anything that would make him want to leave me.

I don't think he would hurt if you told him just how you feel about it. When he suggests that you go to the picture show, just say that your eyes bother you and you would rather not go. Ask him if he would not like to take a walk instead. Let him see that you aren't trying to get rid of him, but just don't enjoy the picture show. By the way, have you ever tried wearing amber glasses made to shield the eyes from strong light? You might enjoy the pictures with proper glasses on. Some people wear glasses in the movie shows only.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am eighteen years old and have very pretty eyes and black hair. I have been going to school since they both like you. I love me very much. I go with one of a few nights and then the other one comes over to see me and I make dates with him. I don't know which one I like best. One is very modest and dresses well and seems to be well educated. The other one is rougher, but has such a good heart that I don't want to let him go. Which one do you think I ought to choose? BABY MINE.

Why choose either one? You are young yet and you don't need to think of marrying. Go with both of them for a while. You ought to be glad that you don't have to go with just one boy. One of the worst things a young girl can do is to center all her attentions on one boy. Go with both of them as long as conditions are as they are now.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen years old and have a very dear boy friend with whom I have been going to the theater recently. What should I do when scenes are staged which are shocking to me but which seem immensely enjoyable to him? Is it all right for us to sit in a swing on the front porch together at night alone?

I will appreciate your advice very much, as my mother is dead and my father is never at home at night.

I would be careful to go only to theaters of refinement where I would be least likely to find objectionable plays. But if such things come up, ignore them.

No, it is not advisable. It is not the thing in itself but what it may lead to, you know. Sitting close together on the swing is conducive to

SIDE TALKS —BY— RUTH CAMERON

“Did you ever in your life hear anyone so egotistical?” said the Author’s wife.

“Do not you mean so self-conscious and embarrassed?” suggested the lady who always knows somehow.

A woman whom we know but casually had been talking to us and in answer to some simple question she had poured forth an astonishing stream of information about herself and her affairs.

It did sound egotistical for her to think we should be interested in the personal affairs of one we knew so casually, and yet when I stopped to think of it in the light of my own experience, I could hardly endorse the lady’s kind criticism.

When one is intoxicated with a stream of information about herself and her affairs, it is not surprising that she should be so self-conscious and embarrassed. I do not mean only the kind of self-consciousness that comes from drinking things but the many, many kinds to which we are all subject: the intoxication of praise, of success, of excitement, of stimulating society, etc. (luckily continued I call them) who just naturally shut up when they are shy and embarrassed. On other people, embarrassment has exactly the opposite effect. They can think of nothing to say and so they say things without thinking. Instead of becoming silent they become noisy and fidgety. The nervous laugh is one of the sure symptoms of embarrassment.

Set That Like a Goop

Just the other day I had an interview with a woman with whom I never feel at ease. I had something important to tell her and along with her splendidly going as I was telling it, but when that was over, my self-consciousness came back to me, and instead of rising and leaving promptly I sat there like a goop and talked about myself. Not because I wanted to talk about myself, not because she wanted to hear me, but simply because I was too nervous to make a quick and graceful getaway.

Pleasant To Remember

Do not be too quick to condemn anyone who talks about himself, unless that person is you. And then do not condemn the person merely for a habit. Make up your mind that when you are nervous and embarrassed you will keep still, hold yourself in leash until you can say something appropriate and intelligent. It is much harder to do at the time but much easier to look back on afterwards.

(Miss Hoyt writes in this paper all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper. If a personal answer is desired enclose a two-cent stamp.)

Money in the form of a gold piece or a check is a gift of old friend or relative may give a bride without the slightest hesitation. She may expend it for any article she covets.

DOCTOR. It is unnecessary for a man to shake hands with a strange woman who calls upon him at his office. He should treat her courteously, place a chair for her, and listen attentively to her business, but if she seems inclined to take up more of his time than her errand warrants, he may politely tell her that other matters require his attention, and excuse himself.

ELEANOR. The word “dress” is used in the same sense of style or character of attire, or the entire outfit of clothing, including hat, gloves, boots, etc., rather than applied to one garment. We say “frock” or “gown” when we mean the outer garment that is worn indoors. It is considered better form to say “shop” instead of “dress” when one is in a store, and that a man “dresses” or “raises” his hat, instead of “tips” it. These taboos words are considered provincial and crude.

Recipe for Grape Juice Fluff Dessert (for three persons)—One 10c bottle of grape juice, one cup of water, three tablespoons of sugar, two small tablespoons of corn starch, pinch of salt and white of one egg. Put grape juice, sugar and water on to boil, stirring and add corn starch, moistened in water. Cook eight minutes, stirring to prevent burning. Cool, add salt and whip into the beaten white of egg. This makes a good inexpensive dessert, more of the consistency of a gelatin than a corn starch pudding. Serve with cream or a soft custard made of the yolk of the egg. Other juices of canned fruit may be used—cherry, peach or raspberry. The grape juice makes a lavender and the cherry a pink dessert, so that they could be used in carrying out a color scheme. Amount of dieting and sugar for amount of fruit juices will have to be determined.

BREADS
Milk Bread—Scald one quart sweet milk, then let it cool to lukewarm. Add one cup lard, one cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, one cake compressed yeast which has been soaked for a half hour in lukewarm water. Add sufficient flour to make mixture the consistency of stiff bread dough. Let rise again and knead down in morning, let rise again and when light put on molding board and roll one inch thick. Cut out with biscuit cutter, brush over with butter, and sprinkle with white and dark side spatula, and fold over. Let rise until very light and bake in moderate oven twenty-five minutes. You can reheat these rolls when they are a week old and they will taste like fresh ones.

Grand Muffins—One cup sugar, one tablespoon shortening, one egg, one cup sour milk, one and three-quarters cups flour, one scant teaspoon baking powder mixed in flour, add one cup (together) raisens and nuts chopped, one teaspoon vanilla. This makes a dozen. They keep moist a long while.

THE TABLE
Poor Man's Pie (without meat)—Use about eight or ten good-sized potatoes. Slice thin, three onions, flour, a little salt and water; work for about three minutes rapidly, then roll very thin and cut in small squares. Have of a kettle of boiling water ready. Put first potatoes and onions, then dough, and so on, until kettle is full. Boil rapidly twenty minutes. You will find this enough for eight people.

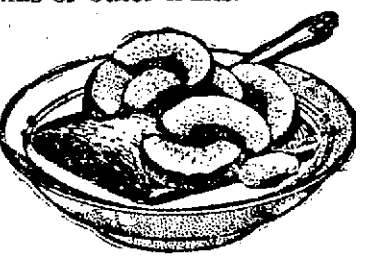

Dumplings—Sift flour into mixing bowl, add a little salt, one tablespoon lard and one-half cupful cold water. Mix well together, using enough flour to make a rather stiff dough. Roll out thin, cut in squares, then sprinkle with flour and drop into boiling broth. Let boil five minutes, stirring around so they will not stick together.

Cottage Cheese Biscuits—Four cupfuls of flour, one cupful of sugar, three teaspoonsful baking powder, one teaspoonful salt. Sift all dry materials together, then mix one-half cupful lard or butter with above, beat three eggs with one cupful milk and mix all together to a stiff dough. Roll out about one-half inch thick and cut in squares. Now have cottage cheese (one pound) mixed with one cupful sugar and three eggs, salt to taste. Put a heaping spoonful of the cheese in each square, pinch the four corners together and bake in oven for five minutes. They are delicious, contain real food value and are very nourishing for school children's lunches.

Annual Fashion Parades Are With Us Again Attracting Tremendous Interest

I pray you not to have a fit. For anything that fits, my dear. Will simply not be done this year.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Oct. 12.—The biannual fashion shows are now upon us. The languid, languishing models are undulating a million dollars worth of furs and metallic embroidery and brocades all over the smartest shops. All the world while gowns are there, they don't everyone will wear. Our old friend Piret has a pair of stunning ones with Chinese air, and Lanvin, Chantrel, Premet too, and Paquin are showing a new style.

Since the Chinese tendency is so pronounced in most of the imported models the settings for the display of the gowns is all Chinked and laquered and gilded and Chinese coded and rused up. The models glide around among the carved ivory and teakwood and Chinese porcelain as much at home as if they had never left the Great Wall of China in their lives.

Of course a few of the models are allowed to sit on the Russian steppes and look like Olga in the Volga fur and padded houses smothered in fur and hectic forced embroidery, but in fact the similarity between the lines of the loose Russian blouse and the Chinese Chinese coat, the brilliant embroidery and those of Russia, and the lavish use of fur on both make it rather puzzling unless you are a connoisseur on Chinese and Russian art or at least of Russian and Chinese tea.

After taking an oblique look and getting a Chinese slant on those different showings of imported models, we go back to the old fashioned and by advice to the woman who cherishes the wild ambition of leading the mode back home is to wait until the fall season and have that personage fit all her gowns on some one with a figure the exact antithesis of

HEALTH TALKS

FOOD FOR THE DELICATE CHILD
Nothing is more obsolete than “allopathy.” There was an antique theory that what a child hated was necessarily very good for his health; so, for instance, a mother would naturally feed her child anything harmful to his metabolism: sugar especially. Grandma was and still is the greatest allopath in the business. That's why the poor children have to be punished with pills and medicine for fulfilling the natural craving for sugar. Even some of the senior medical advisers were wont to agree with Grandma in her allopathy. When, once on a time some doctors actually accepted the epithet, allopath—but that was in a benighted age. There are still various patches of it in practice, and the allopathy who acknowledges the epithet. Education removes it.

More than half the solid substance, the nutritive matter, in a baby's food is sugar. It is the most digestible and perhaps the most concentrated and strengthening food known. Children normally crave a generous amount of it. They should have it in some form of dessert, such as pure candy. Sugar taken before other foods tends to destroy their appetite.

People who habitually eat a little sugar or a candy during the day should be sitting down to a candy shortly before sitting down to a meal.

Another food element which growing children demand in comparative larger amounts than adults is fresh meat. Many adults, in fact, the majority of adults whose work is not very strenuous, do better in every way on a diet which includes very little meat. The cleanest, most wholesome and most palatable food is fresh meat, brown or unpolished rice, and plain rolled oats.

The natural fats of butter, milk, egg yolk, bacon and so on, are especially valuable in the diet of the delicate, underweight child.

If the child is habitually constipated the use of whole seed wheat (very thoroughly cooked, but not mushy), bran, and cereals, and wheat bran should improve the function of the bowel provided regular habits and a due amount of patience are insisted upon by parents.

PRESBYTERIANS IN LOYALTY SESSION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., Oct. 12.—Two hundred delegates to the Presbyterian Synod here yesterday afternoon passed resolutions favoring the stand of the President in the war question, denounced “unloyal men from Wisconsin” that misrepresent the Badger state in the Senate, approved of the Liberty Loan, and urged the continuance of the war until the principles for which America stands are secure. The resolutions were adopted amidst noisy demonstrations from the ministers.

At the next meeting place of the big state wide Presbyterian Synod that has been in session here for the last three days, late yesterday afternoon, the delegates voted to accept the upstate city's invitation and hold the 1918 convention there. It will start on October 15.

Notable speakers of the convention were Dean H. L. Russell of the University of Wisconsin, the Rev. James A. Melrose of Janesville and the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, national moderator. More than 200 delegates and their wives were present at the sessions.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE WANTS TO PLAY FOOTBALL AGAIN

The Business of Living

Bertram Tells the Folks Back Home of an American Soldier's Brave Deeds.

“Dear Folks at Home:

I surely have something to report tonight. The air is electric with excitement. We were bombed by German planes last night a little after sundown. Quite a number of troops were quartered in a little village back of the trenches. The division that were strolling about the streets or sitting in the doors of the cottages chatting and laughing when the planes arose on the evening air. The villagers recognized the sound at once. They have been visited by the German airmen, and they rushed out into the street gazing skyward, followed by street gazing skyward, followed by three of the machines and although the French gunners barged away at them the shots ended in white puffs far below them and they wheeled and circled in the air in the most exasperating manner, dropping bombs on the groups of staring people. Several exploded and some damage was done, but no one was killed. One big bomb fell singing a few feet away from where some fifty villagers were standing. Quick as a flash an active young American rushed from the house doorway where he was standing and turning his pocket searchlight on as he ran—the street was dark by this time—he located the bomb and before anyone could stop him had picked the thing up and hurled it into the river some distance beyond the house. It exploded as it struck the water and sent the spray in every direction. Young McClain sauntered back to his post of observation as calm as if nothing had happened. Such a buzz as there was around the one modest young fellow. It was nothing, he asserted, for a child and he had learned to think quickly.

“His captain says the boy will surely get a French war cross with a palm on it. They are beautiful. What an honor to be the first American to be decorated. Won't he swank—that is the English word for swagger, or get the big head.”

“Suppose you have seen by the papers that the American engineers were discovered by the German airmen and bombed while at work one day last week. They were the first Americans under fire. No one was hurt, however.”

“Did you get my letter of congratulations, Douglas? You did not mention it in your last. I want to know that we are mighty proud that one of our own has protected the lives that will keep the Germans from regaining any of their trade after the war is over. We Americans are finding that we can't do along without German products and we ever go back to Germany for anything. We are big enough and ingenious enough to be self-sustaining. So I thank you, Douglas.”

“Tell Jack I am going to Paris soon, and I shall look up his god-sons.”

“My best love to all.”

BACKACHE
(By Dr. V. M. Pierce.)
In spite of the best cure one takes of oneself, any part of the human machine is liable to become out of order. The most important organs are the stomach, heart and kidneys. The kidneys are the scavengers and they work day and night in separating the poisons from the blood. Their signals of distress are usually recognized and include such symptoms as backache, depression, dizziness, irritability, headaches, drowsiness, rheumatic twinges, dropsy, gout.
The very best way to restore the kidneys to their normal state is to drink plenty of pure water and obtain a small amount of Anuric, which is dispensed by most every druggist. Anuric is inexpensive and should be taken before meals. It is much more potent than lithia and you will find that Anuric dissolves uric acid as water does sugar.

A WALKING SHADOW.
Marshfield, Wis.—"About fifteen years ago I developed quite a severe case of woman's weakness. I was very miserable, could not eat, lost weight and strength until I was almost a walking shadow. I took medicine prescribed by the doctor, but got no relief. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and three bottles cured me. I was feeling splendid, could eat and sleep well and gained in strength and weight. I also gave it to my daughter. She was weak and had fainting spells, and the medicine cured her. We also used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets; there is nothing to equal them."—Mrs. R. D. Jenkins, 105 S. Vine Street, Marshfield, Wis.

Beyond the Frontier

by RANDALL PARRISH

A Romance of Early Days in the Middle West

Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "The Maid of the Forest," etc.

Copyright, A. C. McClurg & Co.

"The delay gave me my only glimpse of D'Artigny, still dripping from his involuntary bath, and so husily engaged at repairs as to be scarcely conscious of my presence on the bank above him. Yet I can hardly say that, for once he glanced up, and our eyes met, and possibly he would have joined me, but for the sudden appearance of Cassion, who swore at the delay, and ordered me back to where the tent had been hastily erected. I noticed D'Artigny straighten up, angered that Cassion dared speak to me so harshly, but I had no wish then to precipitate an open quarrel between the two men, and so departed quickly. Later, Father Allouez told me that in the overturning of the canoe the young sleur had saved the life of the Algonquin chief, bringing him ashore unconscious, helpless from a broken shoulder. This accident to Alouez led to the transferring of the injured Indian to our canoe and caused Cassion to join D'Artigny in advance.

It was five days later, and in the heart of all that was desolate and drear, when the long-sought opportunity came in most unexpected fashion. We had made camp early, because of rough water ahead, the passage of which it was not deemed best to attempt without careful exploration. So, while the three heavily laden canoes drew up against the bank, and prepared to spend the night, the leading canoe was stripped and sent forward, manned only with the most expert of the Indian paddlers to make sure the perils of the current. From the low bank to which I had climbed I watched the preparations for the dash smother. They vanished as though swallowed by the mist, Cassion and a half dozen soldiers racing along the shore like in an effort to keep abreast of the laboring craft.

It was a wild, desolate spot in which we were, a mere rift in the bluffs, which seemed to overhang us, covered with a heavy growth of forest. The sun was still an hour high, although it was twilight already beside the river, when Cassion and his men came struggling back to report that the canoe had made safe passage, and, taking advantage of his good humor, I proposed a climb up an opening of the bluff, down which led a deer trail plainly discernible.
"Not I," he said, casting a glance upward. "The run over the rocks will do me for exercise tonight."
"Then will I assay it alone," I replied, not displeased at his refusal. "I am cramped from sitting in the canoe so long."
"It will be a hard climb, and they tell me the pere has strained a tendon of his leg coming ashore."
"And what of that?" I burst forth, giving vent to my indignation. "Am I a ten-year-old to be guarded every step I take? 'Tis not far to the summit, and no danger. You can see yourself the trail is not steep. Faith! I will go now, just to show that I am at liberty."

He laughed, an unpleasant sound to it, yet made no effort to halt me. The rude path I followed was narrow, but not steep enough to prove wearisome, and, as it led up through a crevice in the earth, finally emerged at the top of the bluff at a considerable distance above the camp I had left. Thick woods covered the crest, although there were open plains beyond, and I was obliged to advance to the very edge in order to gain glimpse of the river.

Once there, however, with footing secure on a flat rock, the scene outspread was one of wild and fascinating beauty. Directly below me were the rapids, rock strewn, the white spray leaping high in air, the swift, green water swirling past in tremendous volume. It scarcely seemed as though boats could live in that smothering, or find passage between those jutting rocks, yet as I gazed more closely I could trace the channel close in against the opposite shore, and note where the swift current bore back across the river.

Leaning far out, grasping a branch to keep from falling, I distinguished the canoe at the upper landing, and the Indians busily preparing camp. At first I saw nothing of any white man, but was gazing still when D'Artigny emerged from some shadow and stepped down beside the boat. I know not what instinct prompted him to turn and look up intently at the bluff towering above. I scarcely comprehended either what swift impulse led me to undo the neckerchief at my throat and hold it forth in signal. An instant he stared upward, shading his eyes with one hand.

I must have seemed a vision clinging there against the sky, yet all at once the truth burst upon him, and with a wave of the arm, he sprang up the low bank and joined his Indians. I could not hear what he said, but with a single word he left them and disappeared among the trees at the foot of the bluff.

He must have scrambled straight up the steep face of the bluff, for it could have been scarcely more than a minute when I heard him crunching a passage through the bushes, and then saw him emerge above the edge. Clinging to a tree limb, his eyes sought eagerly to locate me, and when I stepped forward, he sprang erect and bowed, jerking his hat from his head. There was about his action the enthusiasm of a boy, and his face glowed with an eagerness and delight which instantly broke down every barrier between us.
"You wanted to me?" he exclaimed.
"You wished me to come?"
"Yes," I confessed, swept from my guard by his enthusiasm. "I have been anxious to confer with you, and this is my first opportunity."
"Why I thought you avoided me," he burst forth. "It is because I felt so that I have kept away."
"There was nothing else I could do but pretend," I exclaimed, gaining control over my voice as I spoke. "My every movement has been watched since we left Quebec; this is the first moment I have been left alone—if, indeed, I am now." And I glanced, about doubtfully into the shadows of the forest.
"You imagine you may have been followed here? By whom? Cassion?"
"By himself or some emissary. Pere Allouez has been my jailer, but chances to be disabled at present. The commissaire permitted me to climb here alone, believing you to be safely camped above the rapids, yet his suspicions may easily revive."
"His suspicions?" the sleur laughed softly. "So that then is the trouble? It is to keep us apart that he bids me

The Believer and His Sin

A Study in the First Epistle of John

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of Practical Work Course,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

The First Epistle of John might well be called the Epistle of Assurance, for it tells us certain things that we may know, and how we may know them.

Lord Jesus Christ it is said, "I write unto you, little children, because your sins are forgiven you for his name sake" (2:12).

Perhaps someone reading these words has never had his sins forgiven. He is carrying the burden of his guilt and knows nothing of the joy and peace in believing in the Lord Jesus Christ. To such a one comes the words of Paul, "Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins: And by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses" (Acts 13:28-29). It is possible, you see from this, for an unbeliever to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and have at once the forgiveness of sin and to know that his sins are forgiven him.

The Way of Cleansing.

Then notice next that this epistle tells us of the provision made for the believer's cleansing from the defilement of sin. This is set before us in the first chapter, seventh verse, where we read, "The blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth us from all sin." The word "cleanseth" makes it clear that there is a continual process ever going on in the believer's life by which he is made clean from sin. In two ways God has provided for the believer's cleansing: First, through the blood of Jesus Christ; and, secondly, through his Word. We have the first method mentioned above; the second, when Jesus said to his disciples, "Now are ye clean through the word which I have spoken unto you," and in Ephesians five, where we read of the "washing of the water by the word." The ever-present cleansing, which is the believer's through the blood of Christ, is perpetual in its effect and assures him that before God in Christ he is cleansed. The cleansing by the Word has to do with his daily walk, and in measure as the believer permits the Holy Spirit to apply the Word to his life it cleanses and keeps him from the defilement of sin.

Complete Deliverance.

Then we come to the third fact, which tells us how we may be delivered from the power of sin. "These things write I unto you that ye may not sin" (Revised Version 2:1). When we face this truth we face one of the most solemn truths in the Word of God. We may have been afraid of it because we have known certain teaching that has led into grave error, and as a result we draw back when anyone talks about the possibility of the believer not sinning, but what is the significance of this expression "may not sin"? If it does not mean that there is for the believer deliverance in this life from the power of sin.

It is very evident from the context that the apostle is not teaching the eradication of sin when he says "may not sin" for he says, "If we say we have no sin (that is the root or principle of sin) we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." But in the face of this fact that sin is in us, the apostle says "these things write I unto you that ye may not sin." By this he means the practice of sin, and so he thus sets before us the possibility of the believer being delivered from the practice of sin. Well may we ask, "How?" The answer is, "through Christ."

Our Advocate.

But what if we should sin, is there any provision for us? Yes, says the apostle, "If any man sin we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous" (2:1). This blessed provision is made not that we may sin, but in case we do sin. Just as the lifeboats are placed on the transatlantic liners not that they may go down, but in case they do go down; and so if we fall into sin, the apostle tells us what to do in the words: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1:9). Our part in the restoration into fellowship is to confess our sin, remembering that before God stands our Advocate who pleads by his presence our case. The ideal, however, for our lives is for us not to practice sin. We are altogether too ready to excuse ourselves on the ground of our sinfulness, and so we set a low standard for our lives. God's ideal for us is that we sin not. Have we made it our ideal for our lives? If so, let us look to the Lord Jesus Christ, who by his divine power is able to overcome sin within us.

Nearly the Same.

"Did you ever meet a robber who said 'Your money or your life?'" "Not exactly. But I have met a waiter who gave me clearly to understand that unless I handed over my pocketbook he would allow me to perish by starvation."

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Fourth Quarter. Lesson 11. Ezra 1-11. October 14, 1917.

Golden Text: Jehovah hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad. Psalm CXXXVI. 2.

RETURNING FROM CAPTIVITY.

History presents no parallel to that caravan which issued from the brazen gates of Babylon, chanting to the accompaniment of taboret and flute: "When Jehovah led back the captives of Zion, we were like them that dream." They went laden with the booty of Babylon, and guarded with a cavalcade of a thousand horsemen. * * * The decree which made the journey possible is one of the marvels of history. A State paper unrivaled in the archives of nations. It cannot be accounted for sufficiently by the mere intrinsic nobility of Cyrus' character. It involved the manumitting of captives whose labor added to the wealth of the empire, while their superior intelligence and morality exalted its civil service; it also included the surrender of prized trophies of conquest, besides a generous appropriation from the royal treasury. The losses incurred so far offset any possible gains; as for example, the erection of a fortress upon the frontier of the empire, etc., that we are at a loss to account for this instance of unrivaled imperial self-denial, unless we fall back upon the simple statement of the inspired historian that "The Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus." * * * The response of the Israelites is almost as surprising as the decree itself. The present generation had been born in Babylon. Like the canary in its cage, they rather liked to be and felt safest behind the gilded bars of a congenial serfdom. They had built houses and planted gardens for themselves. There were seven hundred miles of bedouin-infested desert between them and Palestine, involving at least one hundred and twenty days of toilsome marching. And when they should arrive, what would they find but heaps of ruins, affording hiding-places for their hereditary and ever-alent foes? That, in spite of all this, fifty thousand Jews instantly responded to Cyrus' decree can only be accounted for by the further declaration of the scribe, namely, that "God raised (same word as that translated 'stirred' in the case of Cyrus) their spirit to go up to build the house of the Lord." There was a double stirring up; first of Cyrus to issue the decree, and then of the people to obey it. * * * The return from Babylon was a diamond-point of destiny. The history of the world turned upon it. Had it not occurred Judah would have been as certainly absorbed by the heathen empire of the Euphrates as the lost tribes ever were. The Hebrew Scriptures and ritual would have perished from the earth. The ruling idea of the Jewish faith, the person and office of the Messiah, would have faded from the minds of men. The Jewish return from exile was therefore no inconspicuous episode of a local and ethnic religion. It was an event in which all nations and all ages were concerned. As in all providential junctures, the men who contributed to this end built larger than they knew. This does not, however, discount their fortitude, piety, and patriotism. They were immortal heroes, the unnamed rank and file of them, as well as their well-known leaders.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

This page is a mirror of Providence. God wanted his people exiled. They were to learn lessons in adversity, prosperity could never teach them, and not for their own sakes only, but that through them, in hovel and palace alike, the true God might be made known among the heathen. After seventy years God wanted his people emancipated. Nebuchadnezzar and Cyrus were the merest instruments of a wonder-working Providence. "The king's heart is in the hand of the Lord, as brooks of water, and he inclines it whither he will." * * * Providence uses human instruments. God stirred up the spirit of Cyrus. How? No doubt by means of Daniel. The venerable prime minister was no more afraid or ashamed of his religion now than when, years before, he had knelt at his window open toward Jerusalem. He availed himself of some private interview with his monarch to lay this great enterprise before him. So God uses human instruments yet. Yield your selves as instruments to advance the plans of a beneficent Providence. * * * God calls for volunteers. "Who is there among you, let him go." No draft! Whosoever is willing, let him. The most ennobling, beneficent, far-reaching act of which the human soul is capable is this voluntary compliance with the will of God. Honor the brave men who respond to the call for volunteers to save an imperiled nation. Yes! But more those who respond to a Divine call to save a lost world. They shall shine as stars. * * * Sweet are the uses of adversity. God's people went into captivity, captive already to the witching charm of idolatry. The furnace of Babylon freed them forever from that base alloy. Robbed of temple and ritual, too, all that was left to them was the Bible and prayer. By the rivers of Babylon they learned to search the Scriptures and talk with God. * * * The exile was really no disaster. It was only one of many ways God had of refining and refining his people, of helping them to realize the ideal of saintliness which should prepare the way of him who was "the desire of all nations." They were a twice-sifted band, only the best were taken into exile, the best of the best returned. They came back with singing and joy. There were 123 voices in the temple choir and they were accompanied at least part of the way by 200 Babylonian singers and there was at least a rude orchestra of tabrets and flutes. Thus they obeyed Isaiah's injunction, "Go ye out with the voice of singing, say ye 'The eternal hath redeemed his servant Jacob.'"

WHAT IS COMMITTED TO YOU.

(Committee-work Meeting.)

Competing for some eccentric task is a thing to be condemned. On the other hand the taking of work without thought or enthusiasm and merely because it is assigned is even more to be reprehended. We discover our task by examining our environment with the sincere question "What does it demand or suggest?" Not until one has done his elbow-duties is he free to go afield in quest of tasks. In aid of our own judgment comes the Bible casting a clear and direct ray upon our environment as it really exists not as we idealize it. Conscience adds its admonition, its imperious "I ought!" There are those who believe that the Spirit of God may directly move upon the human consciousness so as to produce the same result. While this is not denied the danger is patent. What one may believe to be the monition of the Spirit should be carefully tested by reason and Scripture.

Building Language.

"Language is a city to the building of which every human being brought a stone."—Emerson.

Her Unexpected Action.

"There hadn't no way in the livin' world of telling what a woman will do next!" disgruntledly declared the Missourian. "Why, I took and gave my wife for a birthday present a nice new ax, so's she could cut her washday wood in comfort. And burhning if she didn't whirl in the first thing and knock me down with it!"—Judge.

Propellers Run Tandem.

Experiments made in boat propulsion with one propeller, one behind the other, show that but little increased speed is obtained by the arrangement; and rotating the two screws in opposite directions, either at the same or different speeds, has little effect on the results. It is, however, claimed that the double screw gives better control of the vessel.

Had to Be Accumulated.

Louise had some of her little friends in for luncheon the other day and among other things she had olives. She offered them to one little baby, who said she did not like them, whereupon Louise replied in a superior fashion: "Oh, I didn't like 'em at first, but you must accumulate a taste for them."

BELOIT GAME WILL BE PLAYED SUNDAY

Postpone Game Until Sunday Which Was To Be Played on Saturday at Morse Field in Beloit.

Following a conference between Manager Langdon of the Cardinals and the manager of the Beloit Fairies, it has been decided to postpone the fifth and final game of the series between the two teams until Sunday. The game was scheduled to be played on Saturday but due to a change in the world's series date it was thought best to make the change. A large number of the fans will go to Chicago on Saturday to see the Giants and White Sox play in that city.

Manager Langdon will send a strengthened team against the Beloit men on Sunday. Pechous and O'Farrell, the Chicago Cubs players, will be on the job at their regular positions. Each played good games in the games on last Saturday and Sunday which were won by the Cards. In addition to these two men arrangements have been practically completed for the Cardinals to pitch for the Cards in the Wisconsin Central State League early in the season and who later went to the Cleveland Americans to pitch for the cards in the game on Sunday. Although it is not a certainty that he will be there at the present time Manager Langdon is confident that he will do the pitching in the game. This will mean that Schoup will be used as a utility man.

Both teams have now won two games and on the result of the game of Sunday at Beloit will depend the winner of the series. The game will be played at the Fairbanks-Morse field and will start at two-thirty.

OHIO STATE TO MEET PURPLE ON SATURDAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Oct. 12.—With practice games out of the way, the eleven of the "Purple" will face the first seven best of the season tomorrow. Every member of the western conference will get into action. Development has been rapid in almost all of the camps, and with the shortage of material generally felt some close battles are expected.

The greatest interest is attached to the Ohio State-Northwestern game at Columbus, as it will be the first clash between the two teams this year and the loser will be eliminated from the championship. These two eleven fought out for the western conference championship last fall and Ohio emerged the victor. The Buckeye team is virtually as strong, if not stronger, this year. Critics believe it will be a certain contender for the title again as "Cluck" Hartley, an All-American selection, is playing with the same dash and speed which characterized his work last fall.

Northwestern, on the contrary, has been seriously weakened as a result of enlistments and injuries. Coach Fred Murphy was forced to build his squad around three or four veterans. Although the Purple team cleaned up on Lake Forest rather easily last Saturday, Murphy is not optimistic concerning the team's chances against Ohio, which, in its two early season games, has displayed high scoring power.

The clash between the University of Chicago and Vanderbilt at Stagg field will be Chicago's first start of the season. Vanderbilt usually has developed a team which usually made a strong bid for championship honors of the south.

Little news has come from the Chicago camp since practice was started three weeks ago and the strength of the remarkably youthful squad is unknown. It is regarded as probable, however, that Coach Stagg will start Higgins at fullback, Elton and Rouse in the backfield positions and Chapell or Block at quarter. Gorgan, probably play center, Bondzinski and Moulton guards, Jack and Cochran at tackle, and Captain Brodas and McLeod on the ends.

Higgins evidently expects to triumph over Oklahoma Saturday, for Coach Zuppke of the down state university is shipping his eleven for the all-important game with Wisconsin a week later. The Illini came out of the Kansas game last Saturday without serious injury. Although Zuppke anticipates a victory over Oklahoma, he figures on a close contest as the visiting team has been rolling up large scores over its opponents.

The first two games played by Indiana indicate that Coach Stehm has developed a "scrappy" eleven, even with a shortage of material. The players emerged from the Wabash game in fairly good condition and hold no fear of the St. Louis University which is to be the first of the season tomorrow. The game was called off a week ago and then reinstated after St. Louis decided to go through with its schedule. Fullback Dave, whose leg was damaged in the clash against Wabash, probably will be held in reserve until the Minnesota game.

Coach Richards of Wisconsin plans to send his heaviest players against Northwestern tomorrow. The Badgers failed to reveal much defensive power against Beloit and critics believe that they will face a stronger attack if developed. Richards drove his charges through a punishing series of all week in an effort to overcome apparent weakness.

Minnesota will take the field tomorrow for the first time this season, meeting South Dakota State at Minneapolis. Although the Gophers lost several stars of last year's squad because of the war, supporters of the Green look to Coach Jimmy L. Williams to spring one of the surprises of the season.

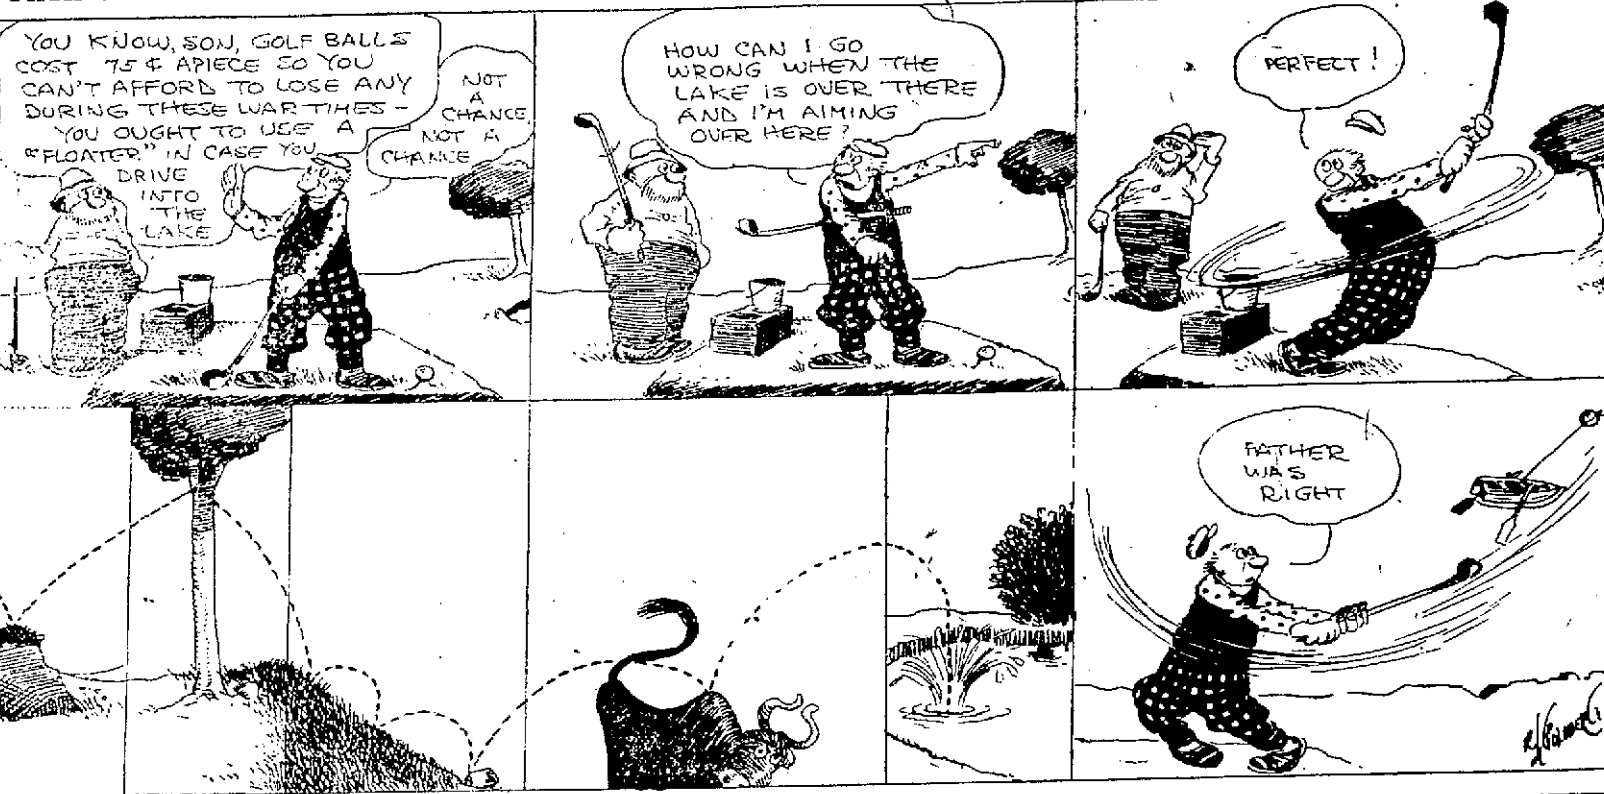

MARQUETTE MEETS BELOIT SATURDAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 12.—Beloit college and Marquette eleven are groomed for the struggle that will mark the opening of the Beloit gridiron season here on Saturday. The Gateway city team has posted by the class with Wisconsin and if any state college can score a win over the Cream City aggregation, Beloit is prepared to turn the trick. Ex-Captain Stuessy and Shepherd are out this week, giving Beloit two veteran linemen that were sadly missed last Saturday. The team looks better this year than any time before.

August 25 the veteran Indian worked the last two innings of the game won from the St. Louis. By getting into the box score for an inning the Chief made it four consecutive consecutive wins. Bender has participated in as many playing days. Bender has won five straight contests, for which he has collected $250 extra, as his contract stipulates that he is to be paid $50 for each game. Bender's losses would total far above $250 if he had had any luck in the three games in which he worked as relief pitcher. Victory or defeat in these contests went to all other Phil pitchers.

FATHER WAS RIGHT

FIGHTING MCGRAW'S FIFTH BATTLE FOR WORLD'S BASEBALL SUPREMACY

McGraw's National league pennant winners of 1917.

Since first taking the job of manager of the New York Giants in 1903, Muggsy McGraw has won five pennants. Only once has he won the world's series. Jawn says that his pennant winners this season comprise the greatest baseball talent he or anyone else ever assembled. The picture shows, top row, left to right: Kelly, Gibson, Onslow, Holke, Salles, Wilhoit, Thorpe, Hemingway, Rariden, Baird, Schupp, G. Smith, Tesreau, Murray and McCarty. Middle row: Kauff, Benton, Robertson, Zimmerman, McGraw, Herzog, Burns and Fletcher. Bottom row: Perritt, Demaree, Lobert, Rodriguez, J. Smith and Young.

THREE TITLES IS GOAL OF LEONARD

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Oct. 12.—Benny Leonard, the capable youth who holds the world's lightweight championship, wants to hold also the welterweight and middleweight titles of the world. He wants to attempt what he proved couldn't be done by men in his class.

Billy Gibson, manager of the champion, declares once upon a time Benny nearly knocked Jim Coffey, heavy-weight, stiff while the pair were boxing in a gymnasium. He believes Benny would be able to outbox Mike Gibbons and is willing for the youngster to go against Ted Lewis, probably the most dangerous of the lot for Leonard.

If Benny should be able to do all the things Billy Gibson claims for him he would take his place alongside the Sphinx and the Pyramids as one of the wonders of the world. For there has been a lightweight who aspired to such heights. Good as he is, it seems Benny is taking in just a little bit too much territory.

It will be a long time before the public and Leonard forget what the lightweight champion did to John Kilbane when they met in Philadelphia shortly after Kilbane and Leonard had each beaten Freddie Welsh. Leonard gave Kilbane the worst beating of his career.

Kilbane is considered the highest type of fighter in the business, not even excepting Leonard. He is considered to be just as good in his own class as Leonard is in the lightweight division. Yet Leonard beat him. That was the old story of a good big man against a good little man, and there is no reason to believe Leonard would be able to reverse the order of things should he meet a heavier man.

MORRIS MILLER

Quite a few players have been so fortunate as to land with pennant winners and thus come in for the big world's series money who were merely favored by Fate. Then again there are stars who have been in the game for years and who are the favorites of the fans and have yet been unfortunate in the world's series matter and have grabbed the large money but few times. Larry Lajoie, for example, played in last campaign twenty seasons and was the hero of the pastime, but he never had the pleasure of getting into the big games or picking up the extra nickels. In all his twenty years of baseball play Wagner has been in only two world's series. Walter Johnson is another who has never been in the big games. On the other hand, Jack Barry is the luckiest of all and has made money out of world's series more than any one else. He was with the Athletics in four world's series and then he went to the Boston Red Sox, where he got in on two more. The money Jack has picked up in world's series games would keep him in comfort through the rest of his years. Quite a few players have been lucky enough to be traded or sold to a pennant winner toward the close of the season and to get a big piece of change they had scarcely earned.

What probably is a major league record at least for the last few years was hung up by Charles Albert (Chief) Bender, the thirty-four-year-old Indian pitcher of the Phillies. His appearance as relief pitcher in the eighth inning of a recent game made it the fifth in seven playing days, a week, in which he participated. Bender's iron act started when he blanked the Cubs with one hit, 5 to 0. He pitched the last two innings of the second game of a doubleheader with Cincinnati, and an August 26 won in the regulation nine innings from the Reds by 3 to 1.

Australia has another Les Darcy. The new star is Jack Hill, former sparring partner of Tommy Uren, who owns both the welterweight and middleweight championships of Australia.

Latest papers from Australia show that Hill, who has been knocking 'em out right and left, "outed" (the Australian definition of knockout) Jack Kearns in the second round and then followed that triumph by stopping Bill Brodie, south coast champion, in the second round. Hill is described as a 158-pounder, five feet ten inches tall, well-built, a good boxer and a powerful two-handed puncher. He lacks in experience but is said to be every bit as promising as Darcy at a similar stage in his career.

The Australian game has been hit hard by the war and the government has stipulated that at least half the show must consist of vaudeville turns. On account of this regulation, ten-round boxing has been introduced in Sydney and Brisbane, and in each city there is now only one twenty-round match a week, instead of two as was formerly the case.

Eddie McGoorty has gone into training and expects to be matched with Hill. He'll probably choose a ten-round match with the Australian phenomenon as he does not feel up to a twenty-round go for his first effort after a long lay-off.

Jimmie Clabby, another American middleweight, is a bit discouraged because the best he could do with Albert Lloyd, Australan heavyweight champion, was a draw in twenty rounds. Clabby isn't looking for any of Hill's game, but has notified the American council general at Sydney that he wants to enlist in some American company whenever called upon to do so.

Revival of Minstrelsy. "Mister Interlocutor, can you tell me why a brakeman on a freight train is like a minister?"

"No, I cannot, Mr. Tanabo. Will you tell us why a brakeman is like a parson?"

"Because they both do a lot of coupling."

"Very good, Mr. Tanabo. And what have you to say this evening, Mr. Bones?"

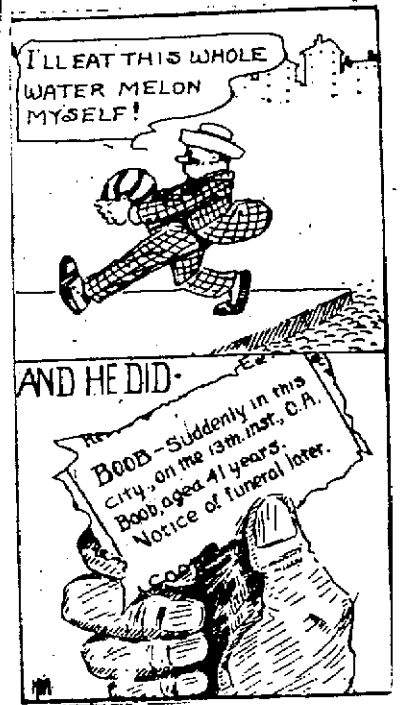

"What is the difference between an organist and a man who is pushing a garbage wagon, Mister Interlocutor?"

"One knows his stops and the other stops his nose."

"As soon as the gentlemanly ushers have gathered up the arms and legs and eyes and ears from the aisles, and the coroner has viewed the mangled remains, Mr. Sandy Pypes will render that pathetic ballad: 'Hurry Up and Leave the Bathroom, Sister Mary Wants to Shave.'"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Furniture Bruise.

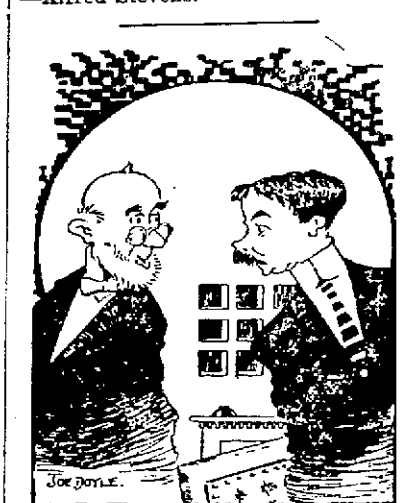

Wet the part with warm water, double a piece of brown paper five or six times, soak it and lay it on the place; apply on that a hot flatiron till the moisture is evaporated. If the bruises on the furniture are not gone, repeat the process. After two or three applications the dent or bruise will be raised level with the surface.

Art Aphorism for the Day. Painting is not done for exhibitions; refined work is smothered and "shouters" come off better. . . . One is only a great painter on condition of being a master workman. . . . GREAT AQUEDUCT IN CATSKILLS FINISHED

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Oct. 12.—A drinking fountain which will cost $140,000 money and eight years of labor will come into the possession of this city tomorrow. It extends from the Catskill Mountains, 120 miles away, and is known as the Catskill aqueduct. In celebration of its official acceptance as a municipal system which will supply water to millions of persons, a three-day festival is planned which is expected to rival the Hudson-Buzzards jubilation exercises here in 1909.

Because of the engineering problems which had to be overcome in enabling the city to draw water from the Catskill dam, 610 feet above sea level, the construction of the system has been described as a feat surpassing in accomplishment the building of the Panama Canal. It is one of the few great undertakings which have been completed both within contract time and without being attended by any labor disturbances.

A citizens committee, appointed by Mayor John Purroy Mitchell, with George McAnany as chairman, has arranged a program in which national, state and city citizens are to be distributed. George B. McClellan, former mayor and now professor of economic history at Princeton university, will be the guest of honor. It was during his administration that the project was begun.

The labor organizations which supplied the workers and the board of water supply which directed the task, together with leading civic leaders will be represented. Charles Strauss, president of the board of water supply, will notify Mayor Mitchell of the completion of the aqueduct. Each night the city will be illuminated.

More than 25,000 public school children will take part in a program called "The Good Gift of Water." This will be held tomorrow afternoon in Central park.

The city has conducted an extensive campaign to acquaint children with the importance of the aqueduct. A non-gambling card game has been distributed and a course connected with the construction of the system are on exhibit at the schools. Medals will be awarded to the two children in each school who submit the ablest compositions dealing with the importance of water and methods of obtaining it for the city.

The Catskill aqueduct creates four lakes in its run from the mountains to the city. It burrows under mountains, tunnels, through high land, dives under rivers until it reached a depth of 1,114 feet below sea level, and then, at the foot of the rock of Manhattan Island, it is twice as long as the most famous water system of the days of Rome and is three times the length of the Nile. The aqueduct will be capable of delivering five billion gallons of water a day.

MORE DETAILS OF CAMP MAC ARTHUR

(By Sergeant Beave.)
Camp MacArthur, established Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, 1917, has just returned from a long walk to "Lovers Leap" and back. It is said that this is the place where the young lady from the south, who was killed by the "Birth of a Nation," was killed. It is a picturesque place and is very steep. Soldiers at Camp MacArthur attend to serious business at their various organizations. Company "M" attended in a lady, as well as the other companies.

Religious services were held in evening at 8 o'clock on the reservation and chaplains of all regiments held religious services. The bands of the different outfits furnished music at the services. Various games were given in every section during the day. Most of these were held in the late afternoon.

The Liberty Bond issue is being boosted at Camp MacArthur. The commanding officer of the thirty-second division.

Yesterday a bulletin was sent to all the camps, and all were instructed to urge the men to take up as great an amount of these bonds as possible.

Brigadier General W. C. Hunt, commanding division recently read a letter from the secretary of war, concerning the new bond issue, and urged the officers to impress upon the men the great advantage of investing their money in this manner. Saturday, commanders of many units explained to their men the suggestion of the department and advised the men to invest. It is reported that a large amount of money has been invested by men of Camp MacArthur in this new bond issue.

Four frog, ring around the rosey, loop mess and a dozen other games were played at Camp MacArthur yesterday afternoon. Saturday afternoon was the first athletic afternoon seen at the local army camp, and every soldier was compelled to attend one of the parties.

Every parade ground, every drill ground and every vacant space in the entire camp was packed with athletic aspirants, and every officer of every outfit was there to see that the men did their duty in promoting the sport program at the reservation.

More than 15,000 took part in the first athletic afternoon at Camp MacArthur. Many were on guard duty, many were on special detail work and scores were excused from the Saturday afternoon athletic drill on account of the fact that they had special business in the city. Men who are backward in drill were given drill during the afternoon, and men who have black marks against them were given drill until they were clean. The first part of the afternoon, the men of the thirty-second division spent the afternoon at the athletic games and in contests that were held at the camp.

Visitors who went to the camp strolled along the main parade on the Reservoir road in Section A and watched the sports from the mess hall until evening. Many of the men staged out until near 10 o'clock the fields were packed. In the mess hall and in Section B, scores of men were gathered. But all of the candidates for the division football team went over to Section A and made their first showing.

The regular inspection was held this morning. Every man of every organization underwent the inspection. The men must have their rifles and side arms in the best possible condition and also they must show their clothing in the best possible shape. When the commanding inspectors go through the units the men must stand at attention and show that they are passable. Their clothes are given the army once over.

This is a perfectly strict inspection and when there is a spot of dirt on a uniform the owner is given a black mark. The ammunition belts must be spotless and clean and the rifles and side arms must be clean, even if it is somewhat old.

The shoes must be shined. Every soldier must be clean shaven and all must pass inspection or get extra duty.

The civilian who visits the camp early this morning will see the cleanest camp and the cleanest bunch of men to be found in the country. Especially the members of Company "M."

The detail for today was as follows: Police officer—Lieut. Polton. In charge of quarters—Sergeant Stramp.

Patrols—Corporal Jolinski, Privates C. Johnson, E. Johnson, Milbrant, Olson, Piegras, Webber, Ashby and Austin.

Sergeant Stramp has been returned to the rank of duty sergeant. Sergeant Grimsbach has been returned to the rank of duty sergeant and he has been succeeded by Sergeant Kamppe. Both Sergeant Stramp and Grimsbach were returned to duty sergeant at their own request.

Rucker Borg was returned to the rank of private at his own request. Private Green will be tried by court-martial for certain offenses committed recently. We hope we will have very few of these court-martials to contend with and we are confident that if the men behave themselves we will not have any more.

Private Sartell went on guard again this evening. It seems as if the training purpose of the camp is to make the men in the regiment feel that they are proud to be in the camp and that they are proud to be in the camp.

Private Sartell is picked as one of the best.

Sergeants Brown and Beard took a long walk this afternoon. When last seen they were wandering over the hills with cameras and field glasses towards "Lovers Leap."

An Edgerton Letter.
From the Waco Camp Ground, Camp MacArthur, Tex., Oct. 4.—Company M, 28th Infantry, with Privates, 2nd Division, National Guard, Camp MacArthur, Tex., is in all probability the proper address for the members of the Edgerton platoon. Under the new organization the Edgerton boys, with the exception of seven, are assigned to Co. M, and the boys from Stoughton, together with Capt. Rollis, will be attached to the mounted police, thus wiping Co. K out of the map.

As we are concerned with the boys are all satisfied to join with Co. M, as you know it was under Capt. Chidwell that our military training began. Harrow, Davis and myself have made application to join the signal corps.

The general opinion is that our division will be one of the first to leave for training about sixteen weeks. Across the pond is what most of us are looking forward to now.

Camp MacArthur looks good to me for training purposes. It has many of the comforts that Douglas lacked. The electric heated tents and streets, paved streets, street cars, and an endless variety of amusements, large and commodious Young Men's Christian Association building where one can read and write with pleasure. The mess accommodations are also a great improvement and our food is good. One thing is bad, however, and that is the water; it is of the alkali brand and a small drink goes a long way. It has put some of the boys out of commission for a short time. But they tell us the longer we drink it the better we will like it. Maybe so.

Then the weather! Well, but it's hot. During the daytime the thermometer registers 102 in the shade—but in the daytime shade is a scarce quantity—the pines and bluffs of Camp Douglas are not here. The drill fields here cover vast acres where but a short time ago cotton and cane were under cultivation. It has not rained here for four months—sunshine every day—and the dust rises in dense clouds from the tread of company drills. Plenty of drill water, dirt, and making themselves at home. Some cactus down here, too. Whoppers!

We get Wednesday and Saturday afternoons nearly every Sunday off and can go to the city every night if we like. And Waco is some city, both as to buildings and its people. Some magnificent business places. There would see the city edifier, but ways give the glad hand of welcome to the boys in uniform. The play houses and movies are first class. It may draw some of our boys out of camp for lunch and see some sights that our wage at home would not permit of.

Say to the folks and all the friends that it's no use to worry about us. We're happy, skilled and well cared for lunch and see some sights that our wage at home would not permit of.

Write often and write long is what the boys want to say to all at home. Private Hixon E. Knapp.

Monday's Letter.
Monday evening, Oct. 8, 1917.

We experienced our first real storm last evening and early this morning. We woke up this morning covered with about an inch of dirt. The ones who left the sides of their tents up had a great deal of dirt in their tents. The wind blew hard and the dust raised havoc with everything that it came in connection with.

At noon it started to rain and we were sure a happy bunch. The rain was a Godsend as it settled the dust in line shape. Of course we had a lot of mud to wade through but we did not mind that. At the table today had our share of dirt also. The dishes were covered with dirt but we are used to that and we do a lot more out here and contend with a great deal more than we would at home.

This afternoon I had occasion to take a walk over to the base hospital, where one of our men is confined with rheumatism. This sure is some place. There were some thirty large frame buildings and they are all connected with runways. The men are treated fine here and all of them are given the best of treatment. When a man is taken here his name is entered in the catalogue and he is then assigned to a ward and a numbered cot. The cots here are fixed on fine, too, and are not like the regulation army cot, but are just like the cots in a big hospital in the city. There are a certain number of nurses to each ward and the men are made as comfortable as possible. Nothing is left undone for their comfort.

We are still waiting for the transfer of the Edgerton men to our company. They will be with us most any day now.

The detail for today was as follows: Police officer—Captain Drien (our reserve captain). In charge of quarters—Sergeant Hermans.

Patrols—Corporal Jolinski, Privates Heinemann, Kizer, Loucks, Marshall, A. Peterson, Schmidt, Treacher, Vogel. Kitchen police for this week—Privates E. Ellis and Foley.

COMPANY NOTES.
Sergeant McDermott and Sergeant Beard are sporting a new pair of hip boots these days.

Overcoats are in demand this evening as it is cold. Tomorrow we probably will be drilling in the hot sun.

Corporal George is busy these days trying out for the regimental football team.

Many of the men availed themselves of the opportunity to attend church last evening.

Edgerton was the latest page in camp; many of them are caught and the boys are making pets of them.

Game in Mexico.
Mexico cannot be said to offer a field for hunters of big game, and the term, "a sportsman's paradise," which is sometimes applied to it, is an exaggeration. Among animals may be enumerated alligators, turtles and iguanas. Whales, seals and sea lions are encountered on the Pacific coast.—New York Telegram.

CARP AN EXCELLENT SUBSTITUTE FOR MEAT

Twelve Ways to Cook Carp by Two Agricultural College Experts.
Worth While to Save.

At last the disciples of Isaac Walton, the renowned fisherman, have come into their own for no longer may they be dubbed shiftless and lazy by friends who when cars on Sunday morning he swings his best rod over his shoulder and goes fishing for carp in the Rock river. The carp so long despised by the housewife is now one of the items in the list of beneficial foods which is within the reach of every purse. It is also one of the big items on the bill of fare for the conservation of food and winning this great war.

During the past two years there were taken from the waters of a single Wisconsin county more than 950,000 and from the inland waters of the entire state over 2,500,000 pounds of carp. By far the larger part of this was sold in New York City, where it is known as "white fish," the salt water fish. There, housekeepers were willing to pay 10 to 15c a pound for this fish. Little appreciated in our own state, but it is coming to be so.

The Wisconsin Game and Fish Commission has arranged with the State Conservation Commission to have supplies of this cheap food-fish placed in the larger cities of the state, thus conserving materially the high-priced meat supplies.

The city of Milwaukee is selling carp at 10c a pound. This is the cost of the fish plus the freight. In food value carp compares favorably with other fish, which are important sources of protein and vitamins.

It may be there for a large extent to be used to take the place of meat in the diet. Like other fish carp should be eaten as soon as possible after it is caught. The eyes should clear and the flesh firm.

The agricultural extension service of the College of Agriculture of the University has given the following two recipes by Abby L. Marlett and Amy L. Daniels.

How to Prepare Carp.
Carp comes to the local market only partly cleaned. The scales are washed in boiling water, and the scales and skin removed. As the oil of the carp which has a distinct flavor is found just below the skin, it is better to skin the fish before cooking. When it is removed the flesh of the carp may be used in any way in which white meat fish is prepared.

To Clean the Fish.
First scrub the fish thoroughly. Then with a sharp knife make a cut on each side of the fins and pull them out. Make a deep cut through the skin along the back, and connect these two cuts by a third cut, enclosing the body just around the back of the head. Fasten the head on a hook or sharp nail driven through the board, take hold of the skin at the angle of the jaw and pull it back, removing the scales by pulling toward the tail of the fish. A sharp knife may be used when the skin does not come off easily. Cut out the tail and remove the entrails. The carp is then ready to be boiled, baked or steamed.

Various Ways of Using Carp.
Because of the distinct flavor of carp it may be salted and allowed to stand over night before cooking, or it may be soaked in water containing acid, as vinegar, or it may be cooked and served in a sour sauce. Onion, garlic or tomato or lemon juice may be used to conceal the carp taste. The time allowed for cooking is twenty minutes for each inch of thickness of the piece of carp.

Carp Soup.
Skin and bone the carp. Boil the bones and head in 2 quarts of water containing one-fourth cup of vinegar, and 2 teaspoons of salt. Add the fish flesh in inch strips, using one pound of carp. Fry the carp in drippings. Cook the following vegetables separately or together in water containing one teaspoon of salt to the quart: one red beet, chopped, two medium sized onions chopped, half a small cabbage chopped. When the vegetables are tender (one-half hour) strain the fish into the soupureen and pour the broth and cooked vegetables over the fish.

Carp Chowder.
14 pound salt pork diced and fried. 3 pounds boned carp, sliced or cut in inch cubes. 1 quart sliced raw potato. 1 quart sliced raw potato. Salt and pepper.

Arrange potatoes, onions, fish and pork in alternate layers in the dish. Salt and pepper each layer. Cover with cold water. Cook very slowly until vegetables are tender. Drain. Soak hard biscuits in common cracker, or pilot bread five minutes in hot water. Add these to the chowder and serve.

Liquid from canned tomato may be used in place of part of the water in which the chowder is cooked.

Savory Carp Stew.
1 quart water. 1 pint vinegar. 2 sliced onions. 1 celery root (or one teaspoon celery salt). 1 teaspoon chopped parsley (¼ teaspoon dried parsley). 1 sliced carrot. 15 allspice berries. 15 whole cloves. 3 pounds boned carp.

Boil the water, vinegar and seasoning 15 minutes. Add the boned carp and cook until tender. Thicken the liquor, using two tablespoons of flour mixed smooth with 3 tablespoons cold water. Cook until the gravy is thickened; pour the gravy over the fish and serve.

Boiled Carp.
Tie the skinned boned carp in a square of thin cloth. Place this in boiling water to which one-fourth cup vinegar and 2 teaspoons salt to each quart have been added. Cook slowly for 20 minutes or until the fish is tender. Serve with a sour sauce.

Sour Sauce. One pint fish stock, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 lemon juice and grated yellow rind. Melt the fat, add the flour, the hot fish stock and cook until smooth. Season with salt and pepper, add the lemon juice and grated rind. Pour the sauce over the boiled carp. Serve either hot or cold.

Sour Cream Sauce. One pint sour cream, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Cook until the sauce boils. Serve not over boiled carp.

Stuffed Baked Carp.
Prepare carp by skinning and removing entrails. Stuff the carp with a dressing made as follows: 3 cups soaked salt bread. 4 tablespoons beef drippings. ½ teaspoon ground mace. ½ teaspoon pepper. 1 teaspoon salt.

Sew up the opening or tie securely. Place the fish in a dripping pan, the bottom which has been covered with a thin layer of fat and slices of onion.

Bake until the fish is golden brown. Serve with parsley and slices of lemon. Place the tomatoes and slices of lemon. 3 pounds carp flesh. 2 onions. 3 ripe tomatoes or 5 tablespoons stewed tomato.
